BAR'S LEAKS® AND RISLONE® BRING LEGENDARY CHI-TOWN HUSTLER TO AAPEX
Rislone Sponsorship Spans 35 Years

Las Vegas (Oct. 26, 2007) AAPEX Booth #4010 — Relive the glory days of funny cars in the Bar's Products booth at AAPEX, where the legendary Chi-Town Hustler will be on display.

The Chi-Town Hustler funny car was made famous on the Midwest match-racing circuit in the 1970s by Chicago-area racers John Farkonas, Austin Coil (now John Force's crew chief) and Pat Minick. The car has been restored as a tribute to these three men and the spirit of the years when funny cars ruled the drag strips. It is built on the original Romeo Palamides chassis, with restored Mini-Charger and Mustang bodies. It carries a 426-cubic-inch Nitro-burning Hemi engine built with the outlines of yesterday, but the safety guidelines of today. The current Chi-Town Hustler is owned and driven by Troy Martin.

Martin's Chi-Town Hustler uses Rislone Oil Stabilizer with Engine Treatment as its official oil additive. Rislone®, America's best-selling engine treatment brand for more than 80 years, has sponsored the car since 1972. Bar's Leaks®, the world's most trusted stop-leak brand since 1947, is also a sponsor. Bar's Products manufactures both the Bar's Leaks and Rislone product lines.

Stop by Bar's Products booth #4010 to see the Chi-Town Hustler during AAPEX show hours Tuesday, Oct. 30, through Thursday, Nov. 1. Meet Martin in the booth on Wednesday and Thursday. He will answer questions and sign autographs.

While in the booth, check out the latest products from Bar's Leaks and Rislone. The new Rislone stabilizer line includes Rislone Oil Stabilizer with Engine Treatment, Rislone Power Steering Stabilizer with Stop Leak and Rislone Transmission Stabilizer with Stop Slip. These products restore vehicle fluids with performance additives and detergents to improve high-mileage vehicle performance. Making its debut at AAPEX is new Bar's Leaks Head Gasket Fix, a permanent, one-step chemical repair for blown head gaskets and engine block leaks.
